Decision set next week

Board eyeing four bids on welfare site

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners has received four bids on a new welfare department building, but no decision on which bid to accept will be made until next week.

The commissioners are planning to move both the Fayette County Welfare Department office and the Fayette County Children's Services office from their present location at 119 E. Market St. by next year.

Prospective bidders have submitted cost factors of renovating or constructing a building to the commissioners' specifications, and then have added rental charges for the county's use. The main building specification called for at least 6,000 square feet of office space.

The lowest of the four bids was from the Burke Monument Co. and McArthur Realty Co. It is for the construction of a building on land near W. Paint Street. The bid totaled $17,100.

The commissioners also received a bid from Earl Watson and Richard R. Wilson for a building at 115 W. Court St. That bid totaled $25,000.

Chester J. Brown of 450 East St. submitted the other two bids. One is for a building on Glenn Avenue for $33,000 and the other is for a building near the intersection of Water and Market streets for $33,000.

However it doesn't really matter which of the four bids is the lowest, because the commissioners are not obligated to accept the low bid.

The three-member board of commissioners should make a decision on which bid to accept at next Monday's meeting. By that time, the four different building sites will be viewed and potential parking facilities will be studied.

Besides the commissioners, Fayette County Welfare Department Director Frank Stanley and a welfare official from the Cincinnati office will also have input as to which bid is selected.

Once a site is selected, the state of Ohio will pay most of the cost of moving the offices to the new building. The state will also cover the monthly rent for the welfare office portion of the newly leased building. The county will be obligated to pay the rent on the children's services office.

The building at 119 E. Market St. was purchased in 1963 for $30,000 through a lease-purchase deal with the state.

Through that deal, the county was reimbursed for the purchase of the building, but the building became the property of the county.

The state no longer has such a lease-purchase plan for counties, but Fayette County is able to take advantage of the new rental agreement. The other alternative would be to construct a new building at the county's expense.

The county commissioners stated they still did not have any definite plans for the Market Street building which will be left vacant early next year.

IN OTHER matters Monday, the commissioners passed a resolution allowing Fayette County Engineer Donald Conley to advertise bids for the replacement of a Madison Township bridge.

The bridge is located on Whiteoak Road over Thompson's Fork. The bridge is reportedly in very poor condition and Conley has estimated its replacement cost at $78,000.

The project calls for a two-lane span, 28 feet wide and 71 feet long. The project will be totally funded with county money and no state or federal funds will be used.

The commissioners also viewed one ditch project Monday and granted an extension for the filing of engineer profiles on another. The Mark ditch was viewed and the extension was granted on the R.B. Reynolds ditch profiles until Nov. 14.

Next Monday, the commissioners are expected to accept bids on building and hospital insurance.

A FAYETTE COUNTY horse show participant at the Ohio State Fair was interviewed and filmed for a Columbus television program.

Karen Kiger, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Kiger, 86 Old Springfield Road, was interviewed Monday morning by WBNS-TV (Channel 10) with her horse "Lady" for "Schoolies" a morning children's program which regularly airs from 7:30 to 8 a.m.

During the state fair, the program will be shown from 9 to 9:30 a.m., and Karen was informed the taping will be aired Wednesday or possibly next Monday morning.

"Schoolies" is a program for small children and the taping included questions a young child might ask concerning Karen's interest in horses, her 4-H club, how she started showing horses and how she was selected to participate at the state fair.

Miss Kiger is a seven-year member of the county 4-H program and is currently a member of the Rough Riders 4-H Club.

DIAMONDS IN THE ROUGH—Where heavy earthmoving machinery is at work this summer, several hundred area youngsters will be playing Little League baseball next spring. A five-acre tract of land off Lewis Road is presently being leveled for the construction of a Little League baseball complex. Backstops, bleachers, and fences will be moved to the site on Aug. 27 and 28 from the former baseball diamonds at Armbrust and Wilson fields, according to Don Kirk, past president of the Washington C.H. Little League Association. Kirk, who is also chairman of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club project, said the fields will be sodded in September and the two diamonds will be ready for play next season. Rotary Club members will handle the moving job from the former two fields. The Washington C.H. Jaycees have also helped with the project.

'Son of Sam' letters studied

Attorneys enter innocent plea for New York slayer

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawyers for David Berkowitz entered a plea of innocent at his arraignment today on charges of murder and assault in the Son of Sam killing case. They said he would plead innocent by reason of insanity if he is brought to trial.

After the brief proceeding before State Supreme Court Justice Leonard Yoswein in Brooklyn, Berkowitz, 24, was remanded to Kings County Hospital. There he will continue the psychiatric examinations that will determine whether he is mentally capable of standing trial.

Berkowitz, his hands manacled in front of him, wore blue jeans, a blue and white pin-striped shirt with a white T-shirt underneath. He was clean-shaven and appeared alert but displayed no emotion.

The innocent plea was entered by lawyer Mark H. Heller, an associate of attorney Leon Stern who was retained by Berkowitz' father.

The arraignment was on charges stemming from the July 31 slaying of Stacy Moskowitz and the wounding of her date, Robert Violante. They were the last victims of the man police call the .44-caliber killer, who killed six young persons and wounded seven during little more than a year.

Yoswein also took up an application by attorney Philip Peltz to withdraw from the case as one of Berkowitz' attorneys. The judge said he would hold a hearing on the matter three to five days after getting the psychiatric report on Berkowitz.

But he ordered tapes of conversations reportedly made by Peltz with Berkowitz to be turned over to the court clerk and sealed. Peltz had reportedly tried to sell copies of the tapes to two newspapers.

Berkowitz was brought to Brooklyn Criminal Court under heavy guard.

"This is the most protection I have ever seen a prisoner get in the 20 years I've worked in the building," one court officer said.

The caravan that brought him included a Correction Department van that accompanied by three marked and four unmarked police cars. Several shotguns could be seen on the laps of officers as they pulled into the courthouse garage. A police helicopter flew overhead.

An estimated 40 uniformed policemen ringed the courthouse, and an equally large number of court officers were in the building.

Berkowitz was charged in the grand jury indictment Monday with murder, attempted murder, felonious assault and illegal possession of the .44-caliber Charter Arms Bulldog revolver that ballistics expert say was responsible for all the shootings.

On new Panama Canal agreement

Carter seeks GOP support

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, hoping for Republican support for the new Panama Canal agreement, is giving former President Gerald R. Ford and his secretary of state special briefings on the pact.

Senate ratification of the agreement is considered less than certain and a boost from Ford and Henry A. Kissinger could help President Carter in an anticipated fight with conservatives.

Carter arranged for his two treaty negotiators and members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to provide briefings for Ford and Kissinger amid strong indications the two would endorse the agreement.

Carter sent Ambassador Sol Linowitz and Air Force Gen. George Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to Ford's home in Vail, Colo., today to brief the former president on the agreement, announced last week.

Ford had plans to hold a news conference after hearing from Linowitz and Brown. A spokesman for the former president said in Colorado that the agreement was "generally consistent" with the negotiations conducted when Ford was in office. The spokesman said the odds were "60-40 we will probably go along."

Carter spoke to Ford about the canal agreement in a telephone call Monday morning lasting five to seven minutes, a White House spokesman said.

The President had lunch with Kissinger on Monday and the former secretary of state said that if the briefing by Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Air Force Chief of Staff David Jones upholds his first impression, he would be willing to testify in favor of the pact before the Senate.

Kissinger said his impression was that the agreement is "based on the same principles that were negotiated during the Ford administration."

The pact, being written into treaty form, turns the canal over to Panama by the year 2000. The settlement concluded talks that began 13 years ago.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Linowitz and Brown, being flown West in a government plane for the Ford meeting, were going "to bring the former president up-to-date in a

"An exacting, 40-page handwritten record" of the killer's eight attacks was found in Berkowitz' apartment, said unidentified police sources quoted in today's New York Daily News.

Letters Berkowitz wrote to his high school sweetheart while he was in the Army were obtained by two newspapers here, the Daily News and the New York Post.

Berkowitz wrote of love and death and religion and talked of dope, guns and bad dreams in letters sent from various Army posts between 1971 and 1973 to Iris Gerhardt.

Once he wrote that "I despise religion, hate prejudice greed, etc.

That's all the world is. A cold mass of hell." But other times, Berkowitz wrote, "I have much hope and faith in God and Peace ... I have finally made a conclusion. That is, God is real."

During basic training at Ft. Dix, N.J., Berkowitz wrote that he had been taught how to fight and shoot. He wrote that he would use these tactics one day to destroy army "lifers" — "the way they destroyed millions of people through the wars they started. One day there will be a better world. After a few heads from the heads of state are removed."

Big question remains in Kutler murder case

CINCINNATI (AP) — There's still one big question about the death of 8-year-old Arthur Noske. Did Dr. Stuart Kutler tell authorities where the boy's body was when he agreed to plead guilty to a lesser charge of voluntary manslaughter?

In a surprise move, Kutler abruptly ended his much publicized murder trial here Monday when he admitted beating the son of his former girlfriend to death on Feb. 4.

Kutler pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter and now faces 25 years in prison instead of a possible life sentence he could have drawn if convicted on the murder charge against him.

Neither Kutler nor the prosecutors would comment on reports that the doctor revealed the location of the body in return for the prosecution's acceptance of the plea on the lesser charge.

Police said they have been searching for the child's body ever since Arthur's mother Ann told police Feb. 18 that Kutler beat her son to death. Earlier, her story was that the boy had disappeared during a shopping trip.

Miss Noske testified that she originally agreed to tell the false story because she loved Kutler with whom she was living on Feb. 4.

When Kutler said "guilty" in a voice so soft it barely carried to the back of the courtroom, Eugene Terpay of the Cuyahoga County Sheriff's Department, turned and smiled triumphantly at his wife, one of the spectators.

Terpay was one of the chief investigators in the case which was tried in Cincinnati because Judge Harry A. Hanna ruled that Kutler could not receive a fair trial in Cleveland because of extensive pretrial publicity. Hanna pronounced Kutler guilty at 9:32 a.m. and ordered him into sheriff's custody until sentencing Sept. 22. Then Terpay pulled the doctor's arms behind him and clamped handcuffs on his wrists.

He led Kutler through the glare of television camera lights to the Hamilton County Jail where he was scheduled to spend the night. An unmarked sheriff's car was to take him back to Cleveland today.

Defense lawyers and prosecutors said Kutler decided Friday to plead guilty and said it was strictly his decision. "There was some discussion of involuntary manslaughter," Asst. County Prosecutor Michael J. Corrigan said.

"But we said absolutely not. It had to be an admission to a knowing killing of an 8-year-old boy."

Although the jurors were told daily not to form opinions until they heard all the evidence, one male juror said after the plea, "If I'd taken a count this morning it would have been 11 or 12 for guilty." Three jurors congratulated the prosecution on the guilty plea.

Corrigan said he will decide whether to press charges of obstructing justice and destroying evidence against Miss Noske and the doctor's father William Kutler, who was implicated by Miss Noske's testimony.

William J. Lee, administrator of the Ohio State Medical Board, said Monday the board will take steps to secure the trial transcript for use in determining whether it will revoke Kutler's license to practice medicine.

West Germany forbids Kappler leaving

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The West German government may have to refuse Italy's request to hand over an escaped Nazi war criminal because the constitution forbids extradition of German nationals, the Justice Ministry said today.

The Federal Criminal Office in Wiesbaden issued a nationwide police alert for Herbert Kappler, the 70-year-old former SS colonel who headed the Gestapo in Rome and ordered the Ardeatine Caves massacre of 335 Italians in 1944.

Kappler, reduced to 105 pounds by terminal cancer, was smuggled out of a Rome military hospital in a big suitcase by his wife early Monday, the Italian government said. He was serving a life sentence.

A West German government spokesman on Monday said that Kappler's 54-year-old wife telephoned German officials that her husband was in West Germany. The Italian government said it was asking West Germany to extradite him.

But a Justice Ministry official said that the German constitution prohibits extradition of a German national wanted for crimes abroad.

He said his ministry had not been asked yet for a ruling on Kappler's case. But he added: "The constitution applies to everybody. Whoever is a German may not be extradited."

The Italian government had rejected requests from Kappler to die in Germany. Italian officials said Mrs. Kappler, on one of her regular visits to her husband in the Celio military hospital, apparently stuffed him into a large suitcase she had brought with her and dragged it out of the hospital under the noses of military police guards.

Kappler ordered the mass execution in the Ardeatine Caves in reprisal for the killing of 32 German soldiers in downtown Rome by Italian Partisans. Among those executed were 70 Jews, and Italian Jewish groups joined Partisan veterans in demanding an explanation for the escape.

"The government said security was so tight that you couldn't even sneak out a pack of cigarettes. ... Now we learn that a trunk containing a war criminal left through the front door," said Jewish leader Fernando Piperno.

Several hundred Roman Jews held an outdoor service in front of a memorial plaque listing the victims of the massacre.

Premier Giulio Andreotti called Kappler a "symbol of the cruel Nazi occupation of Rome." He said he told Italy's ambassador to Bonn to begin extradition proceedings.

But Andreotti, who meets West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt in Verona on Friday for previously scheduled talks, said he hoped the escape would not disturb Italy's relations with West Germany.

Airlines agree on new fares

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Six airlines have agreed on new off-season fares between New York and London of $146 one way and $256 round trip to compete with Freddie Laker's Skytrain shuttle.

The cost for tickets bought in London would be 64 pounds (currently $111) and 149 pounds ($259) because varying tariffs and fluctuating exchange rates make tickets for the eastbound flight more expensive.

The rates are to be effective between Sept. 15 and March 31, with a total of 2,900 seats available each week in each direction aboard planes of Trans World Airlines and Pan American, which originated the plan; British Airways, Air India, Iran Air and El Al. They are the members of the International Air Transport Association (IATA) that fly between New York and London.

Laker, an independent British operator who is not a member of IATA, plans to start one flight a day each way between Britain and the United States in September. He is to charge $236 for the round trip, $135 for the New York-to-London flight and about $111 for the London-to-New York leg.

Charters and package deals now provide the cheapest New York-to-London fares of about $250 to $300 roundtrip.

IATA also announced agreement on lower advance purchase excursion, or APEX, fares between several U.S. and European cities from Oct. 1 to March 31, 1978.

Depending on the flight, APEX tickets must be purchased 14 to 45 days before departure. The new APEX fare between New York and London would be $299, a reduction of $51.

The new IATA rates, announced Monday after a three-day meeting in Geneva, are subject to approval by the British and U.S. governments and by four other major airlines that did not attend the conference.

IATA, an association of 110 airlines from 85 countries, declined to identify the other four lines.

The new cut-rate tickets on the IATA lines would be available in two ways: 1. A passenger would pay the full ticket price at least three weeks before the week he planned to leave. The airline would inform him of his assigned flight no earlier than 10 days before the week of departure.

2. A passenger would sign up in advance on a standby status which would not guarantee him a seat. Seat assignments would be made after 4 a.m. of the day of departure and at least three hours before the flight left New York or two hours before it left London.

Ohio man indicted

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted an Ohio fugitive on six counts of armed bank robbery.

Byron R. Ball, 40, was indicted Monday on charges he robbed three New Jersey banks of $24,860 this summer.

U.S. Atty. Jonathan L. Goldstein said Ball, who escaped last April for the Lucasville (Ohio) Correctional Institute, is still at large. He was serving a sentence for armed robbery at the time of his escape, authorities said.

He is charged with robbing the Spencer Savings and Loan Association of Clifton on June 3, United Jersey Bank in Parsippany on June 28 and the Meadowlands National Bank in North Bergen on Aug. 2.

Patience gone, youth hangs self

NEW YORK (AP) — Apartment 6J at 580 Castle Hill Avenue in the Bronx was George Curet's home, his cage and ultimately the site he chose for his self-destruction. He was 10.

Hour after hour, day after day, George Curet was left in the apartment to tend to his 6-year-old brother, Bruce. Their mother and two older brothers worked. Their father did not live with them.

All this meant that the two boys idled away their hours inside, while other children from the 12-story project played outside.

A resident of the building described it as "run-down" but "the place to come to from burnt-out buildings."

It was in that setting that George Curet lived and George Curet died.

"This year, he didn't come down a lot. His mother wouldn't let him come down," said Robert Alvarado, 14, who described himself and his 10-year-old brother Robby as George's only friends in the building.

"The only time he ever came down was to ride his bicycle. But he only did that a couple of times a year. His older brothers would never take him anywhere."

"He was a quiet kid," Alvarado said. "He didn't like to mess around. And besides, he always had to take care of his brother."

His mother wasn't always happy with the way George handled Bruce. The younger boy would often lose things or else cry to his mother that his older brother had mistreated him. George would be blamed — and sometimes yelled at or maybe hit.

That, at least, is the version Robert Alvarado tells. George wouldn't talk about it — not even to his few friends, including Alvarado.

"I never heard him say nothing," the youth admitted.

Typically, the two brothers were alone in the apartment Monday morning when telephone company worker McKinley Alston arrived to install a phone. But George Curet's patience and hopes had run out.

"Is your mother home?" Alston asked.

"No, just my brother," the young boy said. "But he's hanging."

Alston found George hanging from a closet door, a belt tied around his neck, a chair tipped over beneath him. "A definite suicide," a police spokesman said.

Bruce told police his older brother had asked him to kick the chair out from under him. When he refused, George kicked the chair out for himself.

Loan defaulters cost taxpayers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nine-year cost to taxpayers for defaults on federally guaranteed student loans is slightly over $400 million, and the figure is rising every year, the General Accounting Office estimates.

The fiscal watchdog agency says one of every six persons who gets a loan is refusing to pay back the money.

Between 1968 and 1976, the government guaranteed four million student loans worth $4.5 billion. It reimbursed banks, savings and loan associations and credit unions $287 million for more than 280,000 recipients who defaulted, the congressional agency says.

By the end of next month, however, the GAO estimates defaults will have risen to $436 million, while the government's bad debt collections will have brought in only $33.8 million.

To deal with the problem, the GAO wants the Office of Education to step up its bad debt collection efforts, referring them as a last resort to the Justice Department for legal action.

The GAO recommends that such aggressive action be undertaken nationally, noting that the San Francisco regional office collected $946,000 in defaulted student loans in a three-month period.

This was a record for collections, which included those from persons taken to court and from others who paid up voluntarily.

The GAO says more thorough credit checks should be made of loan applicants. The loans, limited to $7,500 for undergraduates and $15,000 for graduate students, carry a below-market-rate interest charge of 7 per cent. Repayment, which doesn't begin until a student graduates, can take up to 10 years.

The GAO, refusing to provide names, gave these examples of people who have skipped out on their college loans:

—A professional basketball player earning $85,000 a year stopped paying on a $3,500 student loan in 1973. The Office of Education made no headway in trying to collect, then a U.S. attorney had the player's wages garnished. Repayment began last February at $1,000 a month.

—A psychiatrist making $31,000 a year had defaulted on an $8,700 loan. The Office of Education referred the case to a U.S. attorney, who arranged for the debt to be paid off in $100 monthly installments.

—A debtor working for a district attorney at $12,000 a year had defaulted on $5,370 in loans in 1974. The education agency tried to settle the debt voluntarily, but the best offer it got was a settlement of $3,000. It referred the case to a U.S. attorney, who filed a lien against the debtor's savings account. Within two weeks, the government had collected all it was owed.

Rhodes may not accept resignation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The head of the embattled state Transportation Research Center has tendered his resignation, but Gov. James A. Rhodes says he may not accept it.

Rhodes said Monday at an afternoon news conference he had not received the resignation of Robert F. Dreyer, and may not accept it because "we have two or three things going up there and there may be a very important announcement soon."

He said the matter involves a possible major research contract.

Rhodes added that Dreyer has "done a good job up there. He should stay on."

However, the governor said in response to another question, that while he doesn't want to accept the resignation, Dreyer "can quit if he wants to."

Dreyer, in a letter to Rhodes dated Aug. 10 and made public Monday, cited the transfer of fiscal control of the center to the state Controlling Board as the reason for his resignation as chairman of the center's board of directors.

Dreyer said fiscal control of the facility is "the dominant function of a board." Since the legislature recently shifted this control elsewhere, "it behooves anyone who believes in the non-duplication of government functions to act accordingly."

"My resignation, therefore, is simply a logical function of this situation," Dreyer said in his letter.

Dreyer has been a member of the board since its inception in 1969, and its chairman since 1970. His resignation, dated Aug. 10, was effective immediately.

The $30 million center, which tests the safety of automobiles on an 8,000-acre site some 40 miles northwest of Columbus, was the target of a critical report late last year by State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson.

Ferguson called the center "an albatross" and said it has lost more than $20 million trying to run itself as a private corporation.

Dreyer refuted the charges and defended the center's freedom from the usual state controls, but the legislature passed — and Rhodes signed — an order putting it under the controlling board.

Kissinger said that before offering wholehearted support for the pact, he wanted to make sure that the United States retained "the right and power to defend free and uninterrupted access to the canal," which he called essential to U.S. security.

Powell said such an agreement was a goal of the negotiators "and we have such an agreement."

Six-pack launches new beer facility

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Six beer bottles capped with ribbons will be smashed against a brick wall Wednesday in ceremonies dedicating a new $7.5 million beer packaging facility. "I think I'm safe in saying this marks the first time a building will be launched with a six-pack," said William Elliott, president of C. Schmidt & Sons, Inc., the brewery owners.

Lawyers want more time

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Lawyers representing protesters arrested at Kent State University were expected to be in court today asking for more time to prepare their clients' defenses.

In Portage County Common Pleas Court, 68 members of the May 4 Coalition were scheduled to appear today to have their trial dates set. They were arrested last month after defying a court order to stay off the construction site of a controversial gymnasium annex at the university.

The coalition has been protesting the construction since May. It claims the new annex will be too close to the site of the 1970 National Guard shootings which killed four students and wounded nine during an antiwar protest.

The lawyers say they will ask for a continuance so they will have more time to meet with their clients.

Ravenna Municipal Court Judge George E. Martin who is responsible for setting the court dates, has assigned groups of five to eight protesters to be tried at one time before one of three judges.

Although the killings attributed to Son of Sam began July 29, 1976, the .44-caliber killer left his first written message for police last April 27, on the bloodied car where Valentina Suriani 18, and her boyfriend, Alexander Esau, 19, were gunned down. Police said it was written in "a rambling, almost incomprehensible style. He lives in a nightmare world where he sees blood-sucking vampires and Frankenstein monsters."

Opinion And Comment

Much down the hatch

The silly season didn't amount to much this year, but one can still hope for more creative giddy doings in the future. Meanwhile, connoisseurs must make the best of what is offered.

Fanciers of the ridiculous had one passably good day not long ago.

Feats of mass consumption, as it were, occurred in Watertown, S.D., and Austin, Tex. In Watertown 16-year-old Lyndon Hart broke the record for 400 live goldfish swallowed at a sitting; he down 501. In Austin Juan Olivarez engulfed 90 chili peppers to become champion of what was billed - and who would dispute it? - as the world jalapeno eating contest.

Noting much new there, but silly enough to keep the art form alive. Maybe next year it will manifest itself in more exciting ways..

THESE DAYS....By John Chamberlain

A $10 billion bureaucracy for what?

A year ago, on August 17, the American oil industry paid $1.1 billion into the U.S. Treasury for lease rights to drilling sites in the so-called Baltimore Canyon area of the Atlantic continental shelf. But not a single drilling rig has yet been moved into place.

Litigation pushed by environmentalists, whose idea of a sound ecological system is evidently one in which human beings go to bed in winter in long woolies and parkas, has held everything up. A cooperative judge has declared the leases null and void because of alleged defects in the proffered environmental impact statement. Meanwhile the government has paid no interest on the oil companies' money, which has been effectively sterilized insofar as any contribution toward solving the energy crisis is concerned.

What is peculiarly disconcerting, if not disgusting, about the whole impasse is that the seismic survey work along the U.S. Atlantic coast started in the early 1960s at the same time the British and the Norwegians began to look for oil in the North Sea. The comparative chronologies of search on two sides of the Atlantic are most interesting.

In 1964 Britain issued the first licenses to explore North Sea waters. A year later a promising North Seas gas field was tapped, and within two years the first North Sea gas began heating the homes of England.

The oil finds came after the gas. In 1970 the first oil discovery was reported off Aberdeen, Scotland. The Norwegian discoveries followed in due course, and in 1976 the first North Sea oil arrived by tanker in a British port. In all, it had taken seven years to discover and bring ashore North Sea gas, and 15 years to get and market the first oil.

During all this time the U.S. Department of the Interior did nothing to push comparable searches for oil and gas off the U.S. East Coast. Some noncommercial discoveries were reported on Sable Island, but that was in Canadian waters. The Arab boycott came and went, the price of gasoline more than doubled for American car owners, and still nothing happened. Finally, in August of 1976, the first leases were offered for sale, only to encounter Judge Jack B. Weinstein's Federal district court roadblock.

The curdled cream of the jest is that American companies such as Continental Oil and Occidental, braving the turbulent North Sea waters, have done a good part of the work that is going to make Britain self-sufficient for fuel. If the U.S. East Coast is to bring any comparable benefit to America, the date is still far in the future. On the basis of the British experience, it will be 1987 before we get any oil out of the Baltimore Canyon. And even this presupposes that Judge Weinstein's nullification order will be rescinded without waiting for too many months.

Meanwhile, now that Congress has set James Schlesinger up in his new Department of Energy, the hiring will begin for the continuing paper work that the environmentalists and their friends in the judiciary have made necessary. Some 20,000 bureaucrats will take charge of a host of slow-motion operations, one of which may, if we are lucky, bring us some Atlantic Ocean oil in the late 1980's.

And the cost of the bureaucracy? The Oil and Gas Journal says the annual budget for Schlesinger's department will run in excess of $10 billion. John L. Kennedy, the engineering editor of the Journal, reminds us that the cost of the "largest private construction ever," the Alyeska pipeline in Alaska, was pretty horrendous. But it only ran to $7.5 billion in comparison to the $10 billion that will go to support Schlesinger's pencil pushers and computer tabulators. The net profits of the five largest U.S. oil companies in 1976 were about $6.15 billion. Drilling and equipping new wells in 1975 cost $6.6 billion. Query: If we could just get rid of Schlesinger's new department and apply the $10 billion in savings to new exploration and drilling, wouldn't we be swimming in new oil? And new profits to stimulate further production?

Something is wrong when the taxpayers have to pay $10 billion for a bureaucracy to ride herd on people who would produce if you only left them alone. No wonder there is nothing to spare to pay interest on the $1.1 billion the oil companies have tied up in those stymied Baltimore Canyon leases.

Saxbes hold yard sale

MECHANICSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Not everyone can make $5,000 from a yard sale, but when your name is William B. Saxbe, you've got a lot to sell.

Saxbe is a former attorney general, former ambassador and former senator who "collected a lot of junk" on his world travels. So they held a weekend yard sale here to dispose of some of it.

"We sold pretty much everything we wanted too," Saxbe's wife, Dolly, said Monday.

The most expensive item purchased was a room-size Persian rug. That brought about $1,500. The least expensive item?

"Would you believe one of our volunteer helpers sold a broken brick for 50 cents?" Mrs. Saxbe's said. "We had used it to hold down the plastic we covered some of the books with under the tent."

Mrs. Saxbe estimates several thousand people attended the sale. "At least it seemed like it," she said. They came from near and from as far as South Carolina and Massachusetts.

"It was worth it," Mrs. Saxbe said. "It was a lot of fun and we all had a good time."

But, she added, it won't be an annual event. "It was too much work. Now it's time to start collecting again."

Bill on minimum terms offered

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislation setting minimum prison terms for offenders who repeatedly commit violent crimes has been submitted to the General Assembly.

State Rep. Dennis Eckart, D-Euclid, submitted the bill on Friday. It also would create 15 new judgeships to reduce delays in appeals.

The repeaters' legislation would deny bail to any offender awaiting appeal who has a previous conviction for a violent crime. The only other set of mandatory sentences in Ohio statutes are for drug offenses, said Atty. Gen. William J. Brown, who announced his support for the bill on Monday.

New appellate judgeships suggested by the bill would add four in Cleveland, three each in Cincinnati and Columbus, two in Dayton and one each in Zanesville, Akron and Toledo.

"I'LL UPHOLD MY SWORN DUTIES AS A CONGRESSMAN, BUT NO MORE OF CARTER'S BACKYARD PICNICS."

Carter gives self pluses, minuses

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter credits himself with improving the image of the federal government in the minds of Americans, but he concedes that his administration has yet to prove it can solve the nation's toughest problems.

In a critique of his performance after six months in office, Carter concluded that progress has been made in improving the tone of government.

But the president expressed discouragement over efforts to lower inflation and unemployment. And he admitted that there have been no spectacular achievements in foreign affairs.

In a personal report card, Carter summed up his first months in office this way:

"Specifics too early to say. Tone, trust-pretty good."

Carter had been asked to rate himself as President in an interview with ABC News, conducted in his hometown of Plains, Ga., last Wednesday and broadcast Sunday.

"I think as far as the tone of the government and the attitude of our people toward the government, the marks would be fairly high," the President said. "As far as tangible results in this first six months on economy, they have been somewhat disappointing."

Carter noted that there has been no major letup in inflation, and that the unemployment rate has fallen only slightly since he took office.

"We have not had any major breakthroughs in foreign affairs, although we have a very coherent program that we are pursuing," he said. "We are tenacious and determined to improve the situation in Southern Africa, in the Middle East, with the Soviets, on SALT (a strategic arms limitation treaty) and test bands against atomic weapons."

Carter, who campaigned for the presidency as an outsider to Washington, said he is feeling "more and more like an insider"—due to what he called a spirit of cooperation and harmony with both the Democratic and Republican leadership in Congress.

Trash trashing

invasion of privacy

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed NORTH HOLLYWOOD asked you how to deal with a neighbor whose biggest enjoyment in life was going through his neighbors' trash cans, and you replied, "Why not regard it as a somewhat childish pleasure, and let it go at that?"

You are dead wrong, Abby! MY trash is MY business. It contains my bills, personal correspondence, empty prescription bottles, discarded publications, empty food containers, bottles and possibly hundreds of other items that happen to be my private affair and not my neighbor's.

I've never known you to be a Pollyanna before. Please don't start now!

PRIVATE PERSON

DEAR PERSON: You're right. I was wrong. I was also informed that in some places, snooping through someone's trash is considered an invasion of privacy, and is therefore illegal!

DEAR ABBY: I am involved with an older married man, and to tell you the truth, I feel a little guilty about it.

He keeps telling me I shouldn't feel guilty because a married man who is satisfied at home would never even look at another woman. The way he puts it, "If a man is well-fed at home he will not go to a restaurant."

Is that true?

GOT THE GUILTS

DEAR GOT: No. Regardless of how well-fed some men are, six hours later, they're hungry again!

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for making your readers aware that people in wheelchairs can enjoy sex, too. So often, it is assumed, that because a person is in a wheelchair he is unable to function sexually.

Paraplegics and quadraplegics are generally sexually attractive people because of their self-awareness, their sensuality, their courage in coping successfully with their handicaps, their maturity and their genuine appreciation of other people—regardless of whether they are dependent on them.

"Paras and quads," as they often refer to themselves, are human beings with the rare ability to integrate sexually expressions into meaningful personal relationships. In that sense, they have much to teach many members of the non-disabled population who may be sexually handicapped because they are unable to do the same.

People who choose paras and quads for partners are really the fortunate ones. The parents of those who choose paras and quads should be thankful that they have raised children with dept, sensitivity and quality, and not worry whether their child's chosen mate can walk or "ride" down the aisle to be married. God bless those paras and quads!

Trucks, buses face stiff rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's nearly 62,000 commercial trucks and buses will face stricter Public Utilities Commission safety regulations after Aug. 25.

The rules, which can force a vehicle off the road until repairs are made, set standards for mechanical systems, tires, safety equipment and cargo security on all regulated vehicles.

Existing rules are too general and fail to give operators adequate notice of possible violations, the commission said.

Rhodes has rude awakening at fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes was struck in the side of the face with a cream pie after demonstrators disrupted this morning's opening ceremonies of the 124th Ohio State Fair.

The 67-year-old governor complained of pain in his right eye and said he would seek medical treatment, according to an aide.

"He (Rhodes) didn't want to say anything, but he told me the eye hurt and he was going to see a doctor," said James Duerk, director of the Department of Economic and Community Development.

The governor opened the 124th state fair shortly after 6 a.m. today amid chants from the band of protesters who are opposed to construction of a gymnasium annex at Kent State University.

As Rhodes proclaimed, "the fair is officially open," about 20 protesters chimed in "move the gym, remember Kent State."

The group interrupted a presentation to the governor by the Ohio Apple Growers Association.

Demonstrators claiming to be members of the May 4th Coalition were able to repeat their chant only five times before they were shoved outside the fair gates by a group of about six highway patrolmen. Coalition members are trying to stop construction of the annex near where four Kent State students were killed and nine others wounded by gunfire from the Ohio National Guard during an antiwar protest in May 1970. Rhodes was also governor at the time of shootings.

The governor's aides said the pie was pushed into Rhodes' face, striking his glasses.

Obviously angered by the protest, Rhodes pointed to the director of the All-Ohio State Fair Youth Choir and soon the chants were drowned out by the strains of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Immediately after the incident, Rhodes went to his private trailer and cleaned up. He reappeared for a cabinet breakfast at the fairgrounds wearing the same beige suit and shirt and tie.

Rhodes seemed jovial after the breakfast and stood outside the Rhodes Center buying newspapers for reporters.

Safety tips for fairgoers

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Several practical safety precautions have been suggested to visitors of the 1977 Ohio State Fair by John Downing, administrator of the Ohio State Fair first aid center.

It is of utmost importance that fairgoers wear proper footwear; low-heeled, light-weight, flexible walking shoes which are properly fitted. Downing strongly discouraged open footwear such as sandals. He said 50 per cent of the cases brought to the attention of the first aid center are related to improper footwear.

Downing cited heat exhaustion as another major problem. He said a 10-minute rest period every hour in an air conditioned or shaded area would eliminate most occurrences of this type. In addition, fairgoers should keep their fluid intake high and not eat salty foods, unless their doctors recommend otherwise.

The traditional late summer temperature extremes make it necessary to take preventive measure against possible sunburn. Appropriate apparel such as brimmed hats, long sleeved shirts and pants are suggested for those especially sensitive to sun exposure as well as the use of sun screen.

If medical attention of any kind is needed an Ohio Highway Patrol troopers should be contacted immediately. Troopers will call a Columbus ambulance service located on the fairgrounds for a free escort to the first aid center.

The first aid center is located on the southeast corner of the race track, on the edge of the midway. The center will

Car drive shaft theft reported

The drive shaft of an automobile was stolen sometime over the weekend while the vehicle was parked at the Landmark service station, 229 S. Fayette St., Washington C.H. police officers reported.

Sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 6:30 p.m. Sunday, someone removed the drive shaft and drive assembly from a 1967 model Chevrolet belonging to 18-year-old Rick Perrill of Jamestown, a police department report stated. The shaft was valued at $50.

A local woman reported to Fayette County sheriff's deputies Monday morning that she and her husband found two females in their house about 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Willard Bitzer, 6148 U.S. 62-NE, reportedly told investigating sheriff's deputies she and her husband had been in the barn and when they returned to the house, there were two females inside and one outside. The three women told the Bitzers they were wanting to buy some chickens.

According to the sheriff's department report, which listed the incident as criminal trespassing, the women then left the house and began walking north along U.S. 62.

The Bitzers reported nothing missing or damaged.

Air conditioner bid is rejected

The Fayette County Memorial Hospital board of trustees met in brief session Monday night.

The board rejected the lone bid for a 25-ton air conditioning unit for the hospital's dietary department at the meeting, and directed hospital administrator Robert L. Kunz to re-advertise for bids.

Kunz presented the monthly hospital statistical report to the board during the meeting.

In July, the hospital had 404 admissions and 407 discharges. The admissions accounted for 2,317 patient days or 75 patients per day.

General occupancy for the hospital in July was 74.74 per cent while occupancy in the medical-surgical wards was 83.56 per cent.

The average stay per patient last month was 5.40 days, according to Kunz's report.

During July, 1,493 x-rays were taken at the hospital and 10,354 lab tests were conducted. Kunz also reported 310 physical therapy treatments and 168 respiratory treatments.

The hospital's emergency room handled 1,627 cases in July and 242 surgical procedures were made by the hospital's medical staff. Of those surgeries, 104 were major operations and 138 were minor.

MRS. JAMES T. BUCHHAMMER

Greenfield Methodist Church is setting for marriage

Wicker baskets of blue carnations and white daisies accented the altar on August 7 in First United Methodist Church in Greenfield, when Miss Sue Ellen Davis became the bride of James T. Buchhammer.

Miss Davis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Davis, Greenfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Buchhammer, Rt. 2, Frankfort, are the parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Clarence Dinnen performed the double-ring marriage ceremony in the presence of the immediate families.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a floor-length A-line, white eyelet, gown with scoop neckline trimmed with a wide ruffle and cap sleeves. The wide ruffle at the hemline formed a short train. The eyelet lace belt tied in the back. Her only jewelry was a diamond pendant. She wore a circlet of pale blue daisies, white roses and baby's breath in her hair, and carried a colonial bouquet of matching flowers with white streamers.

Mrs. Bryon Winchell, organist, played "Theme from Love Story," "I Honestly Love You," "Feelings," "Theme from Romeo and Juliet," and the traditional wedding marches.

Maid of honor Miss Debbie Buchhammer, sister of the groom, wore an A-line floor-length pale blue flocked voile gown, with square neckline trimmed in white lace, edged with blue. The gown was high waisted and had a self belt which tied in the back. Her white floppy white hat was trimmed in pale blue daisies encircling the crown. The bride's mother chose a soft pink Quiana knit floor-length gown for her daughter's wedding, with which she combined white accessories. Her flowers were white daisies and pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother wore a long pale blue floral print nylon jersey gown with white accessories. Her flowers were white rosebuds and blue daisies.

A buffet dinner for 150 friends and relatives was served in Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was covered with white, and enhanced with silver candlesticks, and a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a bride and groom figurine, and white with pale blue roses. Greenery encircled the base of the cake and blue and white daisies, as was the punch bowl. Mints and nuts in silver dishes were also on the table.

Guests were seated at long tables which were decorated with brandy snifters filled with blue water with floating white daisies. Hostesses were the Misses Alice and Becky Buchhammer, sisters of the groom, Mrs. Barry Black, Mrs. Bruce Baird and Mrs. Howard Miller, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Terry Polley was at the guest book.

Following a wedding trip, the couple is now residing in their new home on the Lower Twin Road, Rt. 2, Greenfield.

The First Baptist Church is setting for wedding

Miss Carol Sue King became the wife of David L. Garringer in the First Baptist Church. The wedding took place at 7:30 in the evening on July 30. The Rev. Ralph Wolford performed the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bertrem King, 1013 Golfview Dr., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.O. Garringer of 735 Fairway Drive.

The church was decorated with yellow and white flowers with a touch of blue. The aisle was accented with aisle candelabra with yellow and blue bows, greenery and daisies, and also with bows on many pews. The main altar consisted of two seven branched candelabra with yellow and blue bows. Two palms on each side of the kneeling bench, and two main altar vases were filled with white killian daisies, yellow daisies, and baby's breath. A trinity candelabra was highlighted by two small white vases on each side, also filled with small white daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Jean Bragg of Mt. Sterling presented a prelude of music on the organ, including the wedding march and many more. Accompanied by Mrs. Bragg was Mark Passwaters also of Mt. Sterling, who sang The Lord's Prayer; Sunrise, Sunset; One Hand, One Heart and They've Only Just Begun.

Miss King, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white quiana knit trimmed with Guipure and Venice laces. It featured an empire bodice accented with lace and a lace cameo collar with a yoke of point d'esprit encircled with lace. The short capped sleeves of lace flowed into the A-line skirt, with a lace border which trimmed the chapel length train.

The gown was complete with the fingertip mantilla veil of silk illusion, edged with Venice lace held in place by a lace Juliet cap. She carried an Angelica styled bouquet of white daisies, yellow sweetheart roses, stephanotis, phalopsis, ivy and baby's breath.

Mrs. Lenora Smith of Enon, Ohio, was the matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of yellow lightweight polyester. The A-line dress had shoulder straps accented with inset bands in the bodice. To accent the dress, was a semi-fitted cape with an attached pointed capelet, of a yellow floral violet with pointed butterfly sleeves. blue chiffon with spaghetti straps, accented by a sheer light blue chiffon capelet. Her corsage of carnations and yellow sweetheart roses completed her outfit. The groom's mother also chose a floor length gown of an aqua knit, with a V-neckline and long sleeves. Her corsage was like that of the mother of the bride, Mrs. Marcus King of Mt. Sterling, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Robert Garringer, grandmother of the groom, were both present.

Presiding at the guest book was Mrs. Denise Clark of Washington C.H. The reception was held at the Washington Country Club. If the Shoe Fits...

Are shoes tight or just new?

There is real danger to a child's foot health to assume that the shoes purchased for Easter still fit. The shoes perhaps were worn very little and still look like new, yet we must face the fact that children's feet grow more in spring and early summer than they do the rest of the year. We can let our pants cuffs, but shoes never stretch lengthwise.

Here is the danger - garbage collectors don't smell garbage. They probably do when they start on the job and when they come back from a vacation, but their sense of smell tires of sending the same message to the brain. Children don't feel the pinch of tight shoes if they wear them long enough to 'get used' to the tightness. Most of our foot trouble is caused by ill-fitting shoes that stop hurting when the nerves stop sending the 'hurt' message to the brain.

Behind Bench and Billingham

Tired Reds stun Padres, 3-0

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Johnny Bench has a long psychological explanation for the fall of the Cincinnati Reds this year.
But in a word, they're "pooped."
"We're just mentally exhausted after five years of tough play," Cincinnati's All-Star catcher says. "It isn't the pressure of going after a third straight world championship. Those entire five years just took their toll — and it's all coming out this year."
With the Reds' 3-0 victory over the San Diego Padres Monday night, they managed to save themselves from falling back to the .500 mark — a modest figure not in keeping with their recent glory years.
The Reds won as many as 108 games in one season during their high-rising, five-year stretch from 1972 through 1976. They captured three National League pennants and two World Series in that period.

The Reds' victory improved their unspectacular record to 60-58 and left them 11 games behind Los Angeles after the Dodgers dropped a 6-3 decision to the San Francisco Giants Monday night.
In other National League games, the New York Mets defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 and the Houston Astros walloped the Atlanta Braves 15-3.
Another of Cincinnati's problems this year has been the offseason of Jack Billingham, one of their top pitchers. Billingham, relegated to the bullpen in recent days, was given a rare start against the Padres and responded with a two-hit performance over seven innings to gain his first victory in two months.
Billingham, 9-9, retired 16 of the first 17 batters he faced to outduel Cy Young winner Randy Jones, 5-9, and snap a personal six-game losing streak. Bench's run-scoring triple gave the Reds a 1-0 lead in the second and his 27th homer of the year, a solo shot in the fourth, made it 3-0.

Giants 6, Dodgers 3
Ed Halicki and Gary Lavelle combined on a five-hitter and Terry Whitfield and Derrel Thomas blasted home runs to lead San Francisco over Los Angeles.
Halicki, 10-9, posted his fifth straight victory over the Dodgers in Los Angeles. Mets 7, Cardinals 4
John Milner drove in four runs with two doubles, triggering rallies in the first and fifth innings that sent New York over St. Louis. The Mets reached John Denny, 7-5, for three runs in the first and drove the Cardinal starter from the mound with four more runs in the fifth.

New York righthander Craig Swan, 8-7, checked the Cards on five hits until surrendering all the St. Louis runs in the eighth, when he received relief help from Bob Apodaca.
Astros 15, Braves 3
Houston scored six runs in the first inning on a two-run homer by Rob Sperring and a grand slam by Art Howe and went on to rout Atlanta behind the combined five-hit pitching of righthanders J.R. Richard and Dan Larson.
Bob Watson and Joe Ferguson each doubled home a run in three run second inning and Richard had a solo homer in a two-run third, staking the Astros to a commanding 11-0 lead. They added four more runs in the sixth, the key hit being a two-run triple by Terry Puhl.

Twins win 13-9 slugfest

Kusick, Gorinski hammer Orioles

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
The Baltimore Orioles found a way of getting Minnesota's Rod Carew out of the lineup. And now they're sorry.
Carew, the American League's leading hitting, was sitting on the Minnesota bench along with Lyman Bostock when the Twins took the field against Baltimore Monday night. Twins Manager Gene Mauch said he rested Carew "because every time he plays a full series in Baltimore his allergies act up."
Craig Kusick and Bob Gorinski started for Carew and Bostock and helped lead the Twins to a 13-9 slugfest victory over the Orioles that saw a record seven home runs soar out of Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

After Kusick blasted two home runs and knocked in five runs, Carew batted for him in the eighth and delivered an RBI single. Gorinski smashed a two-run homer before Bostock pinch-hit for him and doubled, later coming around to score.

The victory, coupled with the New York Yankees' 6-2 win over the Chicago White Sox, boosted the Twins into the AL West lead by one-half game.

"Like anyone else views it (the AL West race), I view it with a certain amount of uncertainty," Mauch said. "Anyone who thinks they can build up a cushion and make a cakewalk of it is kidding himself. If they haven't done it so far, they're not going to do it now. It's four good teams going at it — not great ones, but four good ones."

In other AL games Monday, Boston nipped Kansas City 2-1, California defeated Toronto 7-4, Cleveland downed Oakland 7-2, Detroit clobbered Seattle 13-1 and Milwaukee edged Texas 6-5.

Red Sox 2, Royals 1
George Scott belted his 29th homer and Dwight Evans singled home the winning run as Boston edged Kansas City. The Royals scored in the ninth when Boston reliever Bill Campbell walked the first two men he faced, forcing home a run.

Yankees 6, White Sox 2
Craig Nettles' two-run single backed the six-hit pitching of Mike Torrez, 13-10, as New York knocked Chicago out of the AL West lead. It was Torrez' fifth straight complete game victory.

The Yanks scored single runs in the first and second innings, then sealed the White Sox' 12th loss in 16 games four-run outburst in the fourth, capped by Nettles' hit.

Tigers 13, Mariners 1
Milt May drove in five runs with a grand slam home run and a sacrifice fly while Ben Ogilvie and Ron LeFlore added two-run shots in Detroit's rout of Seattle.

Angels 7, Blue Jays 4
A two-run homer by Tony Solaita helped California's Frank Tanana overcome a shaky start and defeat Toronto. Tanana, 14-7, struck out 11 while giving up 11 hits and walking one.

Indians 7, A's 2
Rick Waits, Don Hood and Sid Monge combined to toss a six-hitter as Cleveland handed Oakland its 16th loss in its last 17 games. It was the Indians' third straight victory and seventh in its last eight games.

Brewers 6, Rangers 5
Sal Bando's run-scoring single capped a two-run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning as Milwaukee edged Texas. The Rangers had a 5-0 lead going into the bottom of the fourth.

Apprenticeship programs given edge

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
As the competition for jobs increases, young would-be workers are finding that apprenticeship programs can give them the edge they need in the search for employment.

The programs usually involve from two to five years of on-the-job training along with some formal classroom training. The apprenticeships are not easy to come by. There are more applicants than there are openings in almost every area.

Unions, high school guidance counselors, vocational schools, trade associations and regional state and federal employment offices are good sources of information for specific requirements and information on how to apply.

Finding out which occupations offer apprenticeship opportunities can be tricky. To help steer young people on the right road, the Labor Department has prepared a list of jobs for which apprenticeships are available and has assessed the employment outlook in each field.

Here is a rundown of some job areas in which employment is expected to grow faster than average from now through 1985 and for which you can train in an apprenticeship program:

LITHOGRAPHIC WORKERS: Job opportunities will grow due to the increased use of offset presses in place of letter presses. The best chances are for those with some posthigh school training in printing technology. Apprenticeship programs usually last four or five years.

BOILERMAKING: Construction of new electric power plants and the expansion of industries, such as steel and petroleum, which use boilers are expected to boost employment. Apprenticeship lasts four years.

OPHTHALMIC LABORATORY TECHNICIANS: The rising demand for eyeglasses will help job hunters. Training may be through apprenticeship program, vocational school or on-the-job. Some states require licenses.

ASBESTOS AND INSULATION WORKERS: Increased construction and the need for energy conservation will boost employment. Most opportunities will be in metropolitan areas. Four-year apprenticeship program, with examination on completion. Applicants generally must be at least 18.

CEMENT MASONS, CONSTRUCTION ELECTRICIANS, GLAZIERS: Increased construction activity is expected to help would-be workers. Applicants for apprenticeship programs generally must be at least 19. A three-year apprenticeship is recommended for cement masons; a four-year program for electricians and glaziers.

PLUMBERS AND PIPEFITTERS: Jobs will be available due to construction in areas such as chemical and petroleum refineries and nuclear power plants which use pipework. Applicants should be at least 16; an apprenticeship, including at least 144 hours of classroom training, lasts five years.

ROOFERS: Increased construction, repairs and waterproofing will create job opportunities. Applicants should be at least 18, with a high school diploma or its equivalent. Apprenticeship program is three years, with a minimum of 1,400 hours of training and 144 hours of classroom instruction in subjects like blueprint reading, mathematics and safety.

Further information is available in the Labor Department publication, "Jobs for Which Apprenticeships are Available," and a companion guide, "Jobs Requiring Junior College or Technical Training." There is no charge for either booklet; both are available from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

A more complete listing of some 850 occupations, including information on the type of work involved, places of employment, training and qualifications needed, employment outlook, earnings and working conditions and sources of further details is offered in the Labor Department's "Occupational Outlook Handbook," published every two years.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On Sept. 18, not Oct. 23 as originally planned, NBC will air a two-hour special it currently calls "Hollywood Goes to War." NBC originally called it "Life Goes to War."

The change came after ABC ordered a similar project, "The Movies Go to War," which may air next month or in October. This kind of special-waring has mildly annoyed at least one producer.

"It's terrible the business has come to that," groused Jack Haley Jr., who's been putting together NBC's special for more than a year. "It's like children fighting at recess."

He says he thinks the show's latest title is "Life Goes to War: Hollywood and the Home Front." Which is closer to the program's basic theme of life in these United States during World War II.

"I'm trying to show what it was like to be a noncombatant on the home front then," said Haley, who since January has been editing down some 500,000 feet of film assembled for his wartime project.

"The movies, of course, and the radio were the two most influential of the media in terms of enlightening people—and also shaping their attitudes."

To show life back then, he added, his special will be a mix of home and battlefield newsreels, photographs, clips of Hollywood's wartime movies and still-preserved radio newscasts of that era.

And, he said, the show will include segments on wartime blackouts, the hysteria that swept the West Coast after Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor, and home-front rationing; and it will tell of Hollywood stars who actually fought in the war, such as the late Wayne Morris, a Navy fighter ace.

"There'll also be vivid glimpses of the war, but in the context of the Hollywood technicians who went overseas," Haley said.

He referred to clips of combat footage from such documentaries as John Huston's "Battle of San Pietro" and William Wyler's classic of World War II combat aviation, "The Memphis Belle."

Haley said he also had planned a segment on the unhappy fact some Hollywood war movies referred to Japanese in racially abusive terms, but had to delete it for lack of space in the show.

"I'd selected a lot of material on that to lead into a Nisei story"—about the Japanese-Americans who served in combat in Italy with the U.S. Army—"but I just didn't have time for it."

"It was a long war and I only have a two-hour show."

Alex Haley to get doctoral degree

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Author Alex Haley will be awarded an honorary doctoral degree during the summer commencement exercises at Brigham Young University.

Haley, author of the best-seller "Roots," will receive an honorary doctorate Friday along with Salt Lake City businessman Joseph Rosenblatt.

Haley's book, which traces his ancestry through American slaves back to African origins, was made into a 12-hour television series watched by an estimated 100 million persons.

Ex-patrolman behind bar

PIQUA, Ohio (AP) — About two years ago, patrolman Doug Groves was called to Helen's Tavern to help county authorities break up a disturbance in which another policeman was stabbed and four persons injured.

Today, ex-cop Groves is behind the bar of what is now the Cuff and Key, perfecting the house drink, the Slammer.

Groves is trying to live down its reputation as a rough and tumble establishment.

"It's hard to live down a reputation," Groves said. "Older people — factory workers and others who came here to eat lunch — tell me fellow workers remark, 'Oh, that's the place where you've got to carry a shotgun.' That's not true, of course. That's the kind of thing I've got to live down."

The 32-year-old ex-cop said he makes his former profession well known.

The bar and restaurant went on the market last April after the Department of Liquor Control denied renewal of the owner's operating permit. Police had testified in Columbus before the control that in one year, 32 complaints were lodged against the establishment.

When Groves quit the police force last March after nine years, he traded eight-hour shifts for 16-hour work days. The Cuff and Key is open until 2:30 a.m.

"Those hours (on the police department) were bad enough, but the job wasn't nearly as time-consuming as this," he said.

"He never has to change schedules," said his wife, Sharon, who helps keep books and works in the kitchen.

"Yeah, I'm just never home," her husband said.

The 20-year-old tavern specializes in cabbage rolls and chili dogs. In September, Groves plans to open at 5 a.m. to pick up the breakfast trade.

Most of the bar patrons are in their early or mid-20s, Groves said. "The young people have commented how the mood in here has changed," said Groves. "They feel they can come in and enjoy themselves and not be bothered by anyone."

Frankfort man nabbed in high speed chase

A Frankfort man, wanted in Michigan on a felony warrant, was arrested by a Washington C.H. police officer Monday afternoon, according to Police Chief Rodman Scott.

Wanted by police for the burglary of a Grand Rapids, Mich., residence, Jerry D. Daniels, 20, of Frankfort, was arrested around 3 p.m. after a high-speed chase east along U.S. 22. According to Scott's statement, Patrolman Anthony Wilson clocked Daniels' vehicle with radar at about 95 miles per hour on Washington Avenue. Wilson pursued Daniels and requested assistance from Pickaway County Sheriff's Department picking up the Frankfort man was heading in that direction.

Scott said Daniels attempted to elude Wilson by driving around behind a barn in a farm field east of Washington C.H.

Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wise, who responded when Wilson called for assistance, aided the patrolman in capturing the suspect.

The police chief added Wilson may not have caught Daniels without the help of Deputy Wise.

Daniels was charged with reckless operation (speeding), driving under suspension and operating an unsafe vehicle. Police officials discovered the man was wanted on charges in Michigan after running a routine computer check with the National Crime Information Center.

Scott said Grand Rapids police authorities were contacted and are preparing extradition proceedings. Daniels is currently incarcerated in the Washington C.H. jail pending extradition.

Other mishaps reported

Local woman injured in two-car accident

Two cars collided on S. Elm Street Monday afternoon leaving a local woman slightly injured, according to Washington C.H. police officers.

The woman, 22-year-old Annetta J. Baker, 108 Davis Court, was treated for a neck strain at Fayette County Memorial Hospital and released. Hospital officials reported. She was transported to the hospital by the Fayette County Life Squad after her car struck another vehicle about 4:55 p.m. on Elm Street near Columbus Avenue.

Police officers reported Ms. Baker was driving south on Elm Street when another car, driven by Hartley D. Shook, 79, of Columbus, pulled directly into her path from the right side of the street. Shook's car had been parked along the south side of Elm Street just before pulling onto the road, the police report stated.

Police officers cited Shook for failure to yield. Moderate damage resulted to both vehicles.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported an ice cream trailer was totaled after it broke loose from a pickup truck early Tuesday morning and overturned along U.S. 35 just west of Bogus Road.

Mike Barnett, 19, of Springfield, was towing the trailer east on U.S. 35 around 1:45 a.m. when it came loose from the trailer hitch and ran off the right side of the road. According to the sheriff's department report, the trailer ran over 60 feet off the right side of the road, overturned in a ditch and tumbled another 60 feet into a farm fence. No one was injured.

Sheriff's deputies also reported a minor accident Monday afternoon in the Nationwide Insurance Company's parking lot on U.S. 22-W.

A car towing a trailer reportedly pulled into the lot around 4 p.m., backed into a company employee's car and left the scene headed west on U.S. 22. Slight damage was done to the parked car belonging to Patricia A. Downing, 37, of 2891 Main St., the police report stated.

New Yorker gets high on seal

NEW YORK (AP) — New Yorkers who are euphoric over the state's new marijuana decriminalization laws can now get high on the state seal.

The official state coat of arms — showing a shield with the state motto "Excelsior" — decorates the cover on packets of cigarette rolling paper.

On the flip side of the cover, for easy reference, are the new penalties for possession and sale of pot.

About 100,000 packets have been distributed to stores by American Dream Advertising, a Massachusetts firm.

Samples also were sent to state legislators, most of whom were amused by the promotion stunt.

TRAFFIC COURT

A local man, arrested Sunday on three traffic violations, was found guilty of all three charges Monday in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Charged early Sunday morning by Washington C.H. police officers following a three-car collision, J. Michael DiDomenico, 22, of 137 River Road, received a 10-day suspended sentence for leaving the scene of an accident. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case suspended the jail term providing DiDomenico does not violate any traffic laws for a period of one year.

However, the judge suspended the sentence on Joyce M. Abrams, 27, of Mount Sterling, on the condition she not violate any traffic laws for one year. She was also fined $25 and costs for the conviction.

Courts

MUNICIPAL COURT

In Washington C.H. Municipal Court Monday, a Leesburg man was found guilty of criminal damaging and sentenced to 20 days in the Fayette County jail.

Municipal Court Judge John P. Case suspended 10 days of the sentence issued against Robert M. Dodds, 24, of Leesburg, providing Dodds make restitution for two windows he broke, valued at $50, in an incident last Friday. The man was also fined $100 and costs for the violation.

Dodds was arrested Friday afternoon by Washington C.H. police officers in connection with an incident at 236 Kennedy Ave. Upon his arrest by local police, he was also charged with consuming alcohol in a motor vehicle. Judge Case sentenced the Leesburg resident to 10 days in the county jail and fined him another $50 and costs for that charge.

The Municipal Court judge dismissed a criminal damaging charge against another Leesburg resident, John E. Taylor, 29. He had been arrested by Fayette County sheriff's deputies in connection with an incident in Bloomingburg during the early morning hours last Saturday.

Judge Case ordered the dismissal at the request of the prosecuting witness and for good cause being shown. Court costs were waived.

Charged with falsification of a police report and disorderly conduct by intoxication, James W. Bartley, 19, of 1601 Miami Trace Road, was found guilty on both charges Monday.

He was fined $100 and court costs for the falsification charge and $50 plus costs on the disorderly conduct violation. He had been arrested last Friday night by Fayette County sheriff's deputies.

A New Vienna resident, 22-year-old Johnnie D. McKinney, was found guilty of disorderly conduct by intoxication during his hearing in Monday's court. Judge Case levied a fine of $50 and costs on the man for the violation.

Sheriff's deputies also arrested McKinney last Friday on Washington-Waterloo Road after receiving several complaints that he was stopping traffic in an effort to hitch a ride.

In one other court proceeding Monday, the balance of a fine issued against Oval F. McCallister, 58, of 128 W. Elm St., in the court last Friday, was suspended providing McCallister complete a detoxication program at the Chillicothe Veterans Administration Hospital. He was fined $100 and costs last Friday after being convicted of disorderly conduct by intoxication.

Columbus resident buys local auto dealership

Mike Cassidy is in the right profession. He's crazy about cars.

The 34-year-old native of Columbus recently purchased the Fletcher Oldsmobile, Cadillac and Buick dealership, 238 S. Main St.

"I guess there is a time in every boy or young man's life, when they're crazy about cars," Cassidy said. "I just never got over it."

The purchase of the dealership from John L. Fletcher, 828 Comfort Lane, was finalized last week and Cassidy says he is excited about owning his own dealership.

He also says he learned the business the right way by beginning work with a top-notch agency, Bobb Chevrolet in Columbus.

Cassidy began working for the Chevrolet dealership when he was 21 and he considers himself lucky to own a dealership at the young age of 34.

"I didn't want to say when I got old that 'I wish I'd done that,'" Cassidy said of his decision to purchase a dealership after he had accumulated the needed money and courage to do so.

Cassidy has expansion plans for the facility on S. Main Street and he also

Perry Township farm brings $2,200 per acre at auction

A 174.76-acre Fayette County farm, in the estate of the late Rella C. Silcott, was sold at public auction Saturday for $2,200 per acre.

The Perry Township farm was purchased by Dr. George H. Pommert, 203 River Road.

The sale attracted a crowd estimated at 200 persons, with potential buyers from three states.

Mrs. C.W. Hammans of Columbus was the executrix of the estate of the late Mrs. Silcott. The Washington C.H. law firm of Kiger and Roszmann handled legal matters. The sale was conducted by the Polk Real Estate firm, 133 S. Main St., with Emerson

Marting as auctioneer.

The Polk Real Estate firm will also be conducting the sale of the estate of the late Mrs. Jean Howat Dice on Saturday, August 27.

The tract, which has generated considerable interest both locally and from developers from other areas due to its potential, contains 130 acres that borders Washington C.H. near the U.S. 35 bypass and is situated adjacent to the Washington Country Club.

Charles Meriweather is the executor of the Dice estate and Kiger and Roszmann are the attorneys. The sale will be held at 1:30 p.m. on the premises at 743 Ohio 41-S.

Electrical fire probed

A small electrical fire at a S. Elm Street residence summoned Washington C.H. firemen early Monday afternoon, according to a fire department report.

An electrical short in a washing machine motor sparked into flames around 1:50 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Helen Leath, 712 S. Elm St., the report stated. Mrs. Leath managed to put the fire out before firemen arrived. No damage was reported.

Monday evening a smoke scare at a Leesburg Avenue home brought firemen to investigate.

Fire department officials reported a blown fuse in an electrical panel caused a clothes dryer to overheat and spew off smoke about 6 p.m. The incident occurred at the home of Michael Yambor of 1104 Leesburg Ave. No damage was reported.

Firemen also investigated a vehicle fire late Monday night in front of 250 E. Court St. Rick Lowe, 2414 Bogus Road, called the fire department when the engine of his 1969 model Plymouth burst into flames.

Officials said they believe the fire may have been caused by a leak in the gasoline line or from an overflow of fuel in the engine's carburetor. The fire was already out when firemen arrived on the scene. No estimate of the damage was reported.
